

Tidewarden Maera

Name: Maera Tidecaller

Role: Tidewarden of Moonrest Haven

Ancestry: Athamaru

Age: 38

Disposition:

Calm, observant, patient — speaks little but listens constantly to the sea.

Maera rarely raises her voice and almost never argues. When she does speak firmly, the entire village listens.

Role in Moonrest Haven

Maera serves as the Tidewarden, a role older than the village itself.

Her duties include:

- guiding fishing boats safely through reefs
- monitoring storm tides
- marking safe ice crossings during winter
- watching for strange vessels approaching the island

She spends many nights walking the coastline while others sleep.

Some claim she speaks to the sea.

Maera never confirms this.

Every resident of Moonrest knows:

- Maera can remain underwater for long periods
- she has saved several fishermen from drowning
- she can predict storms hours before they arrive

The villagers believe she can "hear the tides thinking."

Children say she can see shapes moving beneath the sea that others cannot.

Whether this is superstition or truth is uncertain.

Personality

Maera is quiet and contemplative.

Traits:

- Deeply patient
- Observant
- Spiritually tied to the ocean
- Protective of Moonrest

She rarely gives direct answers.

Instead she often speaks in quiet, thoughtful observations:

"The sea rarely sends something without reason."
